A SUITABLE GOWN FOR DINNER, TEATRE, OR OTHER WEAR.

9825-9826. "Tango charmuse, with trimming of shadow lace and sash and piping of creme velvet, was used for this attractive article. The tiny pointed buttons form a pretty finish on vest and waist fronts. The skirt shows a pretty draped effect, and the hem may be finished in round length or with a graceful short train. The waist is cut on the inside, bloused, and has a slightly shaped collar. Lady's (Walsh Pattern) 9826 and Ladies' Skirt Pattern 9825 are also available. The waist is cut in 7 sizes, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The skirt is in 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38 inches waist measure. It requires 9 yards of 32 inch material for a 36-inch size.

The General

All the way down Howard Murpont gave a brief description of the ball, to which his son, Wilhelm Smythe had received no invitation, and the poor lad was in a agony.

"Dad," he exclaimed, "And she was there, for I saw her."

"Who?" asked the captain.

"Can you tell me, Mr. Smythe, who I know that I am madly in love with her."

The captain smiled.

"I'm afraid, I've heard nothing," he said, encouragingly.

"Why, all the fellows have been chaffing me, said the singleton. "And who is this lady?"

They were ascending the stairs of the apartment, as the question was asked, and Mr. Smythe flung himself into the most comfortable lounge of the great man's luxurious sanctum ere he answered.

"Don't you know? Can't you guess?"

"Not at all," said the captain, handing him the cigar. "Come, who is this?"

The little fellow sighed, and replied, with due emphasis:

"Lady Boidale."

The earl glanced at it, and headed it to the countess.

"Bertie Fairfax!" she breathed.

"Yes, I've got into the library into the library," said the earl.

Then, when the servant had withdrawn, he smiled over his cup of coffee.

"Bertie Fairfax," said the countess, with a frown.

"What do you do?"

"Of course I come to ask for your daughter and not for your money."

"What shall I say if he does?"

"Tell him I must have to order him to leave the house, or I may—"

"Be careful!" said the countess.

Bertie rose from his chair.

"Good morning, my lord," he said, fixing his cold, steely eyes on Bertie's face, and smiling.

"What do you do?"

"Nothing, of course, I have my hands full."

"You can't!" exclaimed the young fellow.

"I can, and will," said the captain, quietly, as our condition—that you will never mention that you are indebted to me for that success.

"I promise that," said Mr. Smythe, "and I will, really will—"

"Ed!" said Mr. Smythe, scarcely catching the idea.

The earl suddenly saw Mr. Howard Murpont again.

"I see," he said, "I'll be you—a five thousand."

The earl wiped his eyes.

"I never bet," he said, "unless the stake is worth something. If I am to win it in my book it must be twenty thousand."

Mr. Smythe hesitated—only for a moment.

"Twenty thousand is it," he said. "If I marry Lady Ethel I pay you twenty thousand, and if I don't—"

"I pay you," said Mr. Murpont, softly.

"And he held on his clavicle, while Bertie rose, clasped it eagerly, and after a fervent and excited "Good-night," took his departure.

Bertie was very happy that night as he sat in his solitary chambers and smoked his favorite pipe.

He dressed himself with unusual care, and put on his glasses.

Would the earl, proud Lord Lackland, accept him as a son-in-law?

He dared not go on his own query, but while away the early hours by passing to and fro, doing a little work, smoking at intervals and thinking about his wife.

That the clock struck eleven he took up his hat and started on his momentous business.

He made his way to the Laceys.

The earl himself was seated in the breakfast-room, smoking his toast and sipping his coffee.

Chief Locklands was seated at the table.

Fitz and Ethel were out in the park at their morning gallop.

At that moment, while the couple sat with a look of annoyance and dissatisfaction on their faces, a servant entered with a card.

"My lord, I should have shamed her if I had not told her of my secret, but I have done so."

"I have a secret, too," said Bertie.

COL. CLARK'S BLINDE RS.

We could almost wish for the sake of justice that of Col. Clark, M.P., for North Bruce, that the Spectator's report of his speech the other evening before the Twentieth Century Club was incorrect and misleading, for it put into his mouth words that no reputable public man would utter. If Sir Wilfrid is one thing more than another it is that he is a gentleman, courteous, dignified and above reproach. But the Colonel, in anything but a gentlemanly spirit, held Sir Wilfrid up before the Tory Club, many of whom were present, as a man to be looked upon with contempt, to be esteemed at a man of infinite vanity, as a man responsible for $40,000,000 worth of graft. Leaving aside the insult so gratuitously hurled at Sir Wilfrid in such an ungracious way, Col. Clark, if correctly reported by our contemporary, is a malicious provocator if he charges that $40,000,000 of the expense of the Guelph, N. T. R., is in graft, and that Sir Wilfrid was responsible for that graft.

Mr. W. F. MacLean, in his speech threw out the hint of a union of the Maritime Provinces, with a view to reduce the political machinery. The Parliament and Legislatures are becoming somewhat unwilling, and as the country increases in population, the representation in these colonies will be enlarged.

EAST END POLITICS.

We publish to-day an interesting letter from Mr. W. Kinch, the worthy President of the East Hamilton Progressive Association, which deals with the work of the association, and incidentally reveals some interesting facts about the Association down there, and to party politics. Although Mr. Kinch's Association was looked upon at its inception with some misgivings, there is no doubt that it has helped considerably in improving and building up that district of the city, and the President is a wide awake enough man to know that what benefits to the whole city must benefit the Association. The Association does not confine its work to that end. If the Association is not a Liberal one, it is Liberal in the right of party politics—it is Liberal in the sense that its object is to promote reform for the good of the community. But the Liberal Club in the Main in Overdale had in view a Liberal Club along party lines, where most of the Liberal persuasion would propagate their views and work for the election of Liberal members. Mr. Kinch says, Liberalism is predominant in Hamilton. We know that the Tory party makes it a special point to make the newly arrived Britisher believe that the Tory party in Canada is the same as the Tory party in the old country, and it has had considerable success in making those people believe that was said true. But to prove the fallacy of this, the immigrants had only to tell us the position of the Tory party in the Old Country. They are all on the Tory side over there. Also it will be noticed that Tory politicians who come over here always coincide in their views with the Canadian Party.

The Colonel had also something to say about reciprocity, and declared that the Underwood tariff has given Canada all that reciprocity would have given it. This declaration of Mr. Clark only shows his ignorance or his desire to be ignorant. He was asked to say something about reciprocity. Well, the Colonel may be a military expert, but as he is not a member of the horse marines, we imagine that he knows as little about dardnoughts as he does about railway building. He is opposed to Canada having a two-deck unit, or a one-deck unit for that matter. Well, we will wait until the route is defended. Well, we will wait until the road is built, the Liberal Club or Association should be formed in East Hamilton, and we understand that one will be established there before long.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Evidently Sir Ian Hamilton believes that Canada should have a Pacific fleet.

The N. T. R. report is not yet made public. But it is doing duty as Tory campaign material.

The 20 mil rate will make it easier for the taxpayer when he goes to the City Hall.

Much is made of Mr. Fielding's estimate of the cost of the N. T. R. That estimate was merely a guess before any surveying or investigation was made.

Mr. Cockshott had a hard time in Parliament yesterday, reconciling his purchase of American stone for the Beaconsfield public building, and his trade or truck with the "Yankees" plan.

Mr. Fay is in Washington to day instead of in his seat in the local legislature. Mr. Fay is not to his liking, so he has gone to the U. S. capitol for a change. He told the New York Tribune that he believed that the Workmen's Compensation Bill would be allowed to stand.

We have received a letter signed "A Citizen," but containing neither the name nor address of the writer, charging some city officials with graft and fraud, and he says he can verify his charge if there is a proper and public investigation of the matter. Under the circumstances, of course, we do not publish the letter. If this gentleman has any evidence of such graft and fraud it is his duty to lay the matter before the proper authorities and have an investigation held. To make charges bring a nom de plume is neither honest nor manly.

Some of the members of the Board of Works complained last evening that the Provincial Hydro Electric Commission exercises too much power over Hamilton's electric system. It is rather a large number of people presented—unrepresented as far as their choice of representative is concerned. Take Hamilton, for instance, it has two Tory members in Parliament, yet the city is pretty evenly divided on politics.

Mr. W. F. MacLean, in his speech threw out the hint of a union of the Maritime Provinces, with a view to reduce the political machinery. The Parliament and Legislatures are becoming somewhat unwilling, and as the country increases in population, the representation in these colonies will be enlarged.

One would hardly imagine that anybody could fill the Association Hall with an eager audience to hear a talk on the Canadian hen. But last evening Prof. Graham, of the Guelph College, spoke to some eight hundred people about the vice and virtues of our hardboiled poultry. Mr. William Gastle also told the audience what the local poultry society is doing to improve the breed.

Mr. Allan, who we presume, is a chicken fancier, presided at the meeting, and what he saw and heard there may dispose him to be somewhat liberal with the association when making its annual grant.

The Board of Control had several architects from the city to consult with them regarding the plans for the new City Hospital, yesterday.

He rather favored the latter idea.

DISGRACE TO CITY

West Ender Criticises the Isolation Hospital.

Will Bring Subject Before the Improvement Society.

S. S. Fox, the popular Locke street merchant, in speaking about the condition of the west end, and of the city in general, stated that the smallpox hospital was a crying shame to a city over a hundred thousand population, as he expressed the intention of bringing the subject before the West End Improvement Society, which made its debut in the Twentieth Century Hall on March 4th.

"A case at point," said this citizen, "was noticed just before Christmas, when Mr. Stewart, who keeps the store next to mine, was taken under care at the smallpox hospital, and was struck with malpert. Having heard that the isolation hospital was in a frightful condition, he would not leave the city with the result that the whole family was quarantined, and his nose shut up until after the holidays. It is a disgrace to the city of St. Catharines."

"The military are great, but the police force is not," said Mr. Stewart. "There are hundreds of dollars, and trade which will never get back. If there had been a decent place for him to go, he would have got well."

"This is just one illustration. There are others of others that are probably even worse."

The story about the place being fit for a dog to live in, I took the trouble to go out there one Sunday and it was almost impossible to run the dog through the mud and the mudholes. It was more than I could understand. It was beastly cold in the building, and rats were in from the outside, and made him sick. I am not afraid of mice, but I am afraid of rats."

"I maintain that it is a crying shame to the city of Hamilton, and something should be done—and maybe we will do it if we are at the next meeting of the West End Improvement Society."

ANNUAL DINNER

And Other Events in Military Circles Last Night.

In the rathskeller of the armories last night G Company of the Thirteenth Royal Regiment held their annual dinner. All members of the company were present, and Captain Black acted as toastmaster. After all had partaken of the food supplied, a presentation of gifts for efficiency and attendance was made to the regimental officers. A P.M. invited the tribute to their efforts. The remainder of the evening was spent in the singing of songs and the telling of stories. The entertainment was so good in saying that the evening had been a complete enjoyment.

G Company of the signalmen were present, and Percy Dumville at a theater party given at the Temple. The men attended in dress uniform, and an air of pleasure was the presence of the ladies.

An interesting and instructive lecture was given in the drill hall to the officers and non-commissioned officers of the Canadian Corps. Dr. D. A. McLean, Thompson, Captain, the work of Pte. R. McBride and others, and the skill with which they did their work. In consideration of these there a price of $10 and 35, respectively, was charged them.

"I hope to be a coming man than 10 miles ahead of the procession—New York Americans."

Music and the Drama

For a glimpse into the nethermost pit of human tragedy caused through the sins of the unguided soul, for exterior appearance, nothing like the blinding beauty of man for wife, one need seek no further than "Fine Feather," the offering at the Grand Opera House last evening, that modern creation by Eugene Walter, whose "Paid in Full" has held Hamiltonians spellbound on various occasions. To a great extent the play, as portrayed by the all-star cast last night, is one of melodramatic elements. Though the principal character is not, nor is he realistic as that found in "Paid in Full," the numerous situations are equally as complex and demand all the fascinating powers of the entire company, which numbers seven. The production took extremely well on its first performance here, and, by those who desire the real meat of dramatic drama, of the highest quality, on the moral line, most perfect naturalness. The Opera House should be packed to-night, the last offering of the season here being the play this season here being simple one, and, if one is to believe all he hears, common enough in every-day business life. The cost of the production is $25 a week employee to gather in $40,000 if he but approves of an inferior kind of cement with which a large dam is to be built. The author of "Paid in Full," Edward Whaley, strenuously when his old college friend proposes this miscalculation, influenced by the hysterical urging of his mother, who has been doing her housework and more running about than $25 a week with a home to pay for all the time, and, when she is told to be warned by Jim Macale, the newspaperman, his steadfast friend. From the little bungalow Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds are to be separated, and the husband, who is a man of means, is to be left with the outward comforts one could wish for, but misfortune continually follows, reaching its climax when he fails to get a job, and with the interior grade of cement. Crushed entirely, the husband, almost a wreck through brandy and drink, is driven to the point of suicide. Here the play ends, leaving the thoroughly broken wife to the care of the newspaperman as the police clasp to-morrow.

The role of the husband was taken with consummate skill and splendidly restrained power by Edward Ashton. His manner of delivery was particularly to the intensity of the part, and the work of the third act, where he reaches the depths of despair, was faultless. Jim Macale, upholds his wife, only to fall a victim to his hard drinking followed by the fourth act, when he ends his days in a ditch, but here our author's modus operandi, but here our author's modus operandi, and the sort of comedy which causes one to agree with the couplet:

"Oh, there's nothing half so sweet in life,
As love's own dream."

Peg is a somewhat different in approach with a few more scenes, both interesting and pleasing. These will be Wednesday matinee.

"PEG O' MY HEART." — Peg of "My Heart," J. Hartley Mander's comedy of youths, that so delighted audiences on Tuesday night, will be repeated on Friday night. The play is full of comedy, and the author's genius deplored with great faithfulness the strong character, which at the worst would dominate the stage, and at the best, make the audience laugh. The play was well received last night to realms seldom seen in Hamilton.

She left nothing but desire to be desired.

The author is greater, John Bradbury, and a William Hartley, a character worthy of deep study. He undertook with skill the part of a creature of flesh and blood, and, but for the hamming, the play was a success.

The school day, which began at 8 a.m., was a delightfully happy one, and the pupils were at the beginning of the first act.

GRIFFIN'S.

Manager Malone, of the Griffin Theatre, announces that the vaudeville and feature film acts, for the last half of the week, continuing to Monday, are to be the same as the previous offerings.

The Bell family, one of the best known in the city, will be in residence at the school, and several other prominent residents. Mr. Parker, superintendent of the Sunnyside school, acted as chairman. The concert was much enjoyed by the students.

The world-wise Mrs. Collins, a fellow cleverly and humorously by Rose Coghlan, is prominent in the early stages of the play.

The story about the place being fit for a dog to live in, I took the trouble to go out there one Sunday and it was almost impossible to run the dog through the mud and the mudholes. It was more than I could understand. It was beastly cold in the building, and rats were in from the outside, and made him sick. I am not afraid of mice, but I am afraid of rats."

McFADDEN'S PLATES.

"McFadden's Plates," which opened yesterday, is in full swing, and is said, has been entirely reconstructed, and much new material incorporated, making it entirely new and up-to-date. An exciting and varied program, this season includes such well-known artists as Arthur Connelly, Mason, Linton, Billie Speck, Broderick, Eddie Murphy, Bert Hart, George Mahlon, Noreen Durahan, Eddie Olwe, Billie Kittle, Morgan and a chorus of attractive young ladies who know how to sing and dance.

THE LYRIC.

Photo at the Lyric have caught with the interest of the "movies" in this city. This has been amply demonstrated since the opening on Monday, in the large crowds which have been attending the picture show.

"We Were Twenty One," "Never Say Die," Mr. Goodwin has this time provided himself with what is pronounced by critics as a masterpiece.

The remaining success in London, while the Chorus girls are still in residence, the remainder of the month.

"Zuma, the Gypsy," the picture play in two parts, and contains many interesting scenes, one irresistibly along with the action of the drama.

For Friday and Saturday the management has arranged a special program in Hamilton. A feature repertory entitled "Zuma, the Gypsy." This photo play is in two parts, and contains many interesting scenes, one irresistibly along with the action of the drama.

GREAT MEETING OF POULTRY MEN

Association Hall Filled to Utmost Capacity.

PROF. GRAHAM TALKS

Fine Programme Arranged by Poultry Association.

The largest and most enthusiastic meeting of poultry fanciers ever held in Hamilton took place in Association Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Hamilton and Wentworth Poultry and Pigeon Association. Fully eight hundred, among whom were many ladies, turned out to hear Professor Graham, of the Ontario Agricultural College, lecture on "Practical Poultry Keeping," and the duties of chairman were undertaken by Mayor Allan, who, in his introductory remarks, convinced his hearers that he takes a warm interest in the hen. Prof. Graham talked interestingly and instructively for an hour and a half, dealing more particularly with poultry from a commercial viewpoint. He emphasized that there is a splendid market right at hand for all kinds of birds into the poultry breeding business. As eggs for some years have been unable to compete with those of other people for eggs of the same fowl, with the result that each year enormous quantities have to be imported from outside. The word was given that the time had come for poultry, he said, is not hard, but very exacting, it being necessary to give the ultimate attention to detail in feeding and caring for the birds.

He pointed out that the father of a pullet had all to do with her egg-laying propensities. They have one rooster at the college, he said, which has been trained to depend upon to lay four dozen eggs during the coldest period of the winter, or when eggs are scarce and dear, and they have eggs to spare. When young daughters were never known to lay an egg until nearly every other hen was doing the same. There was no set rule, however, as to the number of roosters, but he counseled his hearers never to select a "sassy" looking male bird. Always chose a bold, broad-headed, strong-boned, vigorous, and especially masculine-looking rooster in order to attain the best results from a utility standpoint. The professor gave valuable information concerning the market value of market, and predicted that the time is not far distant when eggs will be sold by the pound. In the raising of young chicks, he advised the liberal use of green food, such as sprouted oats, meal, chopped up and mixed with shorts, etc. During the first week, however, the chicks should be fed on a program as to how that will be brought about.

When the matter was broached at the last session of the council, few favored the debenture system. If such were followed, interest at a high rate would have to be paid on the money borrowed, but nothing definite was done.

Warden Bettram had a second interview with Mr. Bell yesterday, and will report back to the council at the next session, in March.

Mr. Bettram will report that the bank officials believe the overdraft should be attended to, and that it should at least be paid off within a reasonable delay.

It was decided, however, that another effort will be made to persuade the council to support a higher tax rate to wipe out the long standing debt.

CANADIAN CLUB

Excellent Speakers for the Annual Dinner Next Week.

The demand for tickets for the annual dinner of the Canadian Club, which will be held in the L.O.O.F. temple next Tuesday night, promises to exceed that of last year, and the club has issued an invitation to meet the requirements.

The professor said that chicks which were fully feathered when six weeks old, will weigh about 10 pounds, and are high producers. He had no objection to the chick which went around half-naked during the early period of life. This showed lack of a proper constitution.

When the professor had finished his lecture, Mayor Allan announced that if any of the audience care to speak on any particular point, Mr. Graham would be pleased to enlighten them.

"What about grit, professor?" shouted a female voice.

"Well, would it not be safe for me to call on that subject in view of the party in power?" he replied. After a hearty laugh had subsided, he said that almost any of the commercial grists were all right, and that the best was in hopes for the chick to become fat. There was no danger of their eating to much, and for hours in close quarters it was absolutely necessary to furnish them with the wherewithal to masticate their food.

Mr. Wm. Gastic then addressed the audience on the subject of the organization regarding the work being prosecuted by the Hamilton and Wentworth Poultry and Pigeon Association. He said that the association is an important factor in the poultry industry, and is making elaborate preparations for its silver anniversary to be held in May. It is to be international in character and many American breeders have already signified their intention of taking part in the exhibition.

The mounted meetings are held in the Trades and Labor Hall, 100 King Street, for the next few months to follow.

COUNTY DEBT

Deputation Conferred With Bank Manager Yesterday.

In compliance with the resolution of the County Council a week ago, the Warden, Councillor Douglas, and County Treasurer Archie Cochran, have waited upon the Bank of Hamilton to discuss the county's overdraft and the method to be followed in dealing with it. The overdraft is now $10,000, and several days ago, but nothing definite at this meeting, other than a general discussion in regard to the advisability of paying off the overdraft by issuing debentures, to cover it. It will be remembered the bank urged the county to take steps to pay off the overdraft as soon as possible.

The idea of issuing debentures did not find much favor. The county officers, of course, do not desire to raise any tax rate, unless absolutely necessary.

Warden Bettram had a second interview with Mr. Bell yesterday, and will report back to the council at the next session, in March.

Mr. Bettram will report that the bank officials believe the overdraft should be attended to, and that it should at least be paid off within a reasonable delay.

It was decided, however, that another effort will be made to persuade the council to support a higher tax rate to wipe out the long standing debt.

When the matter was broached at the last session of the council, few favored the debenture system. If such were followed, interest at a high rate would have to be paid on the money borrowed, but nothing definite was done.

When the matter was broached at the last session of the council, few favored the debenture system. If such were followed, interest at a high rate would have to be paid on the money borrowed, but nothing definite was done.

Warden Bettram had a second interview with Mr. Bell yesterday, and will report back to the council at the next session, in March.

Mr. Bettram will report that the bank officials believe the overdraft should be attended to, and that it should at least be paid off within a reasonable delay.

It was decided, however, that another effort will be made to persuade the council to support a higher tax rate to wipe out the long standing debt.

Hamilton Aldermen Want to Cut Away From It.

OVER HYDRO CHARGE

Other Matters Before the Works Committee.

Local officials seemingly are just beginning to realize how much authority they do not possess in regard to Hydro matters. Apparently from the lethargy they were shown in the city's solution to the hydro problem, the Works Committee several of the Aldermen gave expression to thoughts that would easily be stamped out by Sir James Whitney, were that old gentleman not at present giving his entire attention to a combat with Father time. It was the action of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Toronto, in ordering the Hamilton Hydro-Electric commission to raise its rates to 6 cents per kilowatt hour from 5.75, that precipitated trouble. The committee believed that Hamilton should have authority to set its own prices. Several members intimated that the sooner Hamilton broke away from the authority of the Ontario Commission the better.

Chairman Birrell pointed out that with no authority, a local commission was not needed, as it seemed necessary to appeal to the Ontario Board for every electric bill.

The charge for power supplied to the Beach pumping station was discussed.

A motion was made to take action given to the alleged overcharging during 1913. But the matter was not gone into.

The charge for water supplied to the pump station was discussed.

An amendment was moved to increase the diversity factor. The matter was not fully considered, but left in abeyance.

Regarding the charge for water supplied to the pump station, it was decided that the city could pay for the operation of only one pump, though the charge for two pumps would be the same as the amount payable during the year 1913.

The committee desired to approve the lamps recommended by the Hydro-Electric Commission of the Ontario Commission. Standards were not discussed.

Regarding lighting the outlying districts of the city, Chairman Birrell and the Committee agreed with Englehart.

Chairman Birrell and Secretary Bremer.

The matter of saving to the Hydro-Electric Commission on the introduction of nitrogen. Tungsten lamps was mentioned, and it was claimed that some reduction of price should be made to the public.

Mr. Sifton displayed a letter from Chief Engineer Gandy, February 10th, stating that the Canadian Commission would recommend a rate of $8 per 100-watt Tungsten and $12.75 per annum for each 200-watt lamp.

Tungsten lamps cost an average of 80 cents and 81 per cent respectively.

The committee decided that the amount of the street lighting system to be paid to the Hydro-Electric Commission should be open to the inspection of the police department and that the price paid by the Ontario Commission should be made known to the public.

The matter of saving to the Hydro-Electric Commission on the introduction of nitrogen. Tungsten lamps was mentioned, and it was claimed that some reduction of price should be made to the public.

At the last meeting of the Works Committee Charles Schwenger requested that he be refunded $716 which amount he paid out for the laying of a sewer on Schenck Avenue some years ago. The property at that time was not in the city. The committee voted to make a recommendation that a return be granted as since the sewer was erected Mr. Schwenger had sold his lots, thereby losing claim for reimbursement. The report was adopted.

The committee on erection steps up Sherman Avenue mountain reported progress.

A sub-committee was appointed to consider the feasibility of extending Aurora street northerly.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Success of Event Next Month Is Assured.

The fact this some of the Hamilton automobile dealers will not have an exhibit at our show will not interfere with the success of the affair in any way," said B. M. Waverly, president of Hamilton's first automobile show to be held in the new armories the second week in March. "There are so many automobile firms doing business in this city that we can't afford to let them all be missed, and while we are sorry that they cannot see fit to join us, we are not worried. Different, the largest number of cars and trucks in the United States have contracted for space and those, along with the exhibitors of tire companies, will take up all the room we will have."

Nothing is being left undone in the effort to make the show a success. Commercial houses have let rooms, a large hall, and it promises to be a beautiful sight when the show opens on March 2. Both of the local military companies will march in review the week, and other attractions in the musical line will add to the gaiety of the affair.

"A meeting of the Automobile Dealers Association will be held next week to make final arrangements for the big exhibition.

STRIKE IMMINENT

Among Cloakmakers of Montreal and Toronto.

Montreal, Feb. 17.—According to statements made by P. Steinberg, organizer of the Local Clothiers Union, a general strike of all the organized cloakmakers from both Toronto and Montreal, numbering some thousand men and women, cannot be avoided if the workers are not paid more than anyone else in the city.

"What makes women extravagant in dress?" asserted the Bachelor Girl.

"Women are frightenedly extravagant in the matter of dress," said the Bachelor Girl.

"If men spend as much money on their clothes as women do, the world would get along much better," she said.

"Women have less sense enough to know the balance," he concluded, virtuously.

"What makes women extravagant in dress?"

"Women are just about as sensible as you'll find, and she was lamenting that she had to spend on clothes," said the Bachelor Girl.

"But she is a professional man, was always telling how exquisitely dressed his clients were, and she has a very amiable, wealthy wife, and she made up her mind she would not be wise for her to suffer in comparison he naturally assumed that she was a woman who was better off than he was.

"I don't get that over the men," said the Bachelor Girl.

"There aren't any men in the world I know who I would be willing to pay for women's clothes who doesn't grow about the waist," she said.

"I haven't the slightest doubt about that," sweetly responded the Bachelor Girl.

"If his wife or daughter were to come along, I would be sure to look up to the other women of their set, her gown looks like mine," she said.

If men could see the world in a different light, and not only half of it, they would be more modestly clothed with affected plainness.

The Bachelor laughed. "Of course, you like to excuse yourself by saying that men are like children."

"Honestly now, in nine cases out of ten I know, when a man wants to look good, he does it, it would be hard to believe that he's not the men's fault."

"I know, now, in nine cases out of ten when a man wants to look good, he does it, it would be hard to believe that he's not the men's fault."

Indoor Ball

Y. M. C. A. and Rowing Club

Play This Evening.

Two good games of indoor baseball will be staged at the Y.M.C.A. large room this evening. The first between the Y.M.C.A. and the Rowing Club, should cause considerable interest. The Rowing Club has not been striking their proper gait this last couple of games, but will have a strong line-up to-night and with the Rowing Club, the boys are just as confident that they will win and lots of rivalry is existing between both organizations. The second game will be between the St. Lawrence and the Alerts. Both these teams play good baseball and we may make a close race. St. Lawrence always put up a strong exhibition and the Alerts may be relied upon to give them a close run for the honourable sheet will be provided for the spectators and a big crowd is expected.
